Welcome to our Faithful Parishioners and
All Those who may be 'Just Visiting'

Jesus washed the feet of his apostles at the Last Supper as a sign of loving service, instructing them "as I have done this to you so must you do for one another." We as a family of faith strive to live this commandment of love in doing all that we can to welcome you as we invite you to be an active member of this community.

Welcome new parishioners! If you are new to our parish, I invite you to introduce yourself to me or any of the other priests after Sunday Mass. Even though we are a large parish, we make every effort to come to know you and your family personally so that we may be better able to serve you. If you would like to register, please see the Welcome section on the homepage of our website (www.srolchurch.org) for details.*

...from Fr. Gerard

*How inscrutable are his judgments and how unsearchable his ways!
For who has known the mind of the Lord or who has been his counselor?*

The nonstop news cycle is a continued source of anxiety. We can very easily fall into a black hole of bad news, hostile exchanges, and tragic events. Our response to the daily onslaught is often one of two responses: an overwhelming discouragement at the “world today” or a disillusioned shutting down and tuning out. We might not always understand why or how these things happen, but as people of faith, we know that in all things, “Jesus Christ is Lord.” In the tumult of this world, we might not always understand God’s ways, but as St. Paul states in today’s second reading, we submit ourselves to wisdom beyond our understanding.

Perhaps part of God’s most confounding wisdom is that he delegates it. In the first reading, we see a glimpse at the historical role of the steward as one who bears full authority over his master’s house. The same “keeper of the keys” language is bestowed upon Peter in the Gospel. God appoints, God delegates, God gives us a role and responsibility for his creation and his people. The Church has special authority in this, but no one is exempt from the call.

Immaculee Ilibagiza is an outstanding woman of faith who travels the world sharing how she survived the Rwandan genocide. In an obvious response to many happenings around us, she stated this week. "Sometimes for things to change around us, what we need is to start changing ourselves, our ways, our behavior and start praying more, GRACE!" We all know that human actions can tear the world apart. Sin makes disorder, chaos, and evil present. But good, which became incarnate in Jesus Christ, is real and tangible every time we open ourselves to the grace of God.

We know we can’t fix everything. In the balance of our own life’s responsibilities, we’re right to be wary and prudent with our time and energies. However, we cry with the psalmist: “Do not forsake the work of your hands”; we can’t resign God’s action to the realm of the miraculous. Every day, step by step, by our actions of love, we can be part of the concrete experience of God’s fidelity in the world.

Each year, Americans celebrate Labor Day as a national holiday to honor working people. For Catholics, it is also an opportunity to recall the traditional teaching of the Church on dignity of work and the rights of workers. As Pope Francis pointed out, "Work is fundamental to the dignity of a person. . . It gives one the ability to maintain oneself, one's family, to contribute to the growth of one's own Nation."

This Labor Day, the economic facts are stark, and the human costs are real, especially for the poor who may be unemployed or underemployed. The struggle to support their families is a daily battle. Please consider supporting the Catholic Ministries Appeal which supports the programs and services that assist families and individuals struggling in our communities.
